

Phenogenesis: The Process of Becoming Visible

Embryology: A 3 Day Foundation

February 7th – 9th 2020 (Friday – Sunday)
Elissa Dell rcst vcsw

This 3 day course has developed and evolved over the years.

It is open to Craniosacral Therapy Practitioners and others by arrangement. There will be one place open at a lower cost for anyone who would like to re-attend.

This foundation course has been designed to provide a perceptual framework to embryology. It aims to de-mystify the subject and make what can be very abstract fragmented concepts sit holistically in an accessible and relatable way.

There will be an emphasis on the anatomical and functional changes and processes and I will introduce a psychological approach to the pre-conceptual journey.

We will draw on a broad base of information to view the material through different lenses.

There will be an opportunity to develop perceptual skills, exploring ways of letting the Embryo tell us about itself: providing ways of moving from theory and isolated pictures to finding a felt-sense based relationship to the actual embryological forces that these images describe.

I am a practitioner of Craniosacral Therapy and have over 15 years of teaching at the College of Craniosacral Therapy in London and currently developing Postgraduate courses and Collaborations for Craniosacral Therapists and other Practitioners.

I am a supervisor with the Craniosacral Therapy Association of the UK. I trained at CCST in London and Visionary Craniosacral Therapy in USA, Germany & Switzerland and have assisted on courses in Europe. I am currently practicing in London and East Sussex.

All schools of Craniosacral work have something to offer.
